Invitation to the Self; journey with the star people Bonnie Jean Hamilton

Invitation to the Self; journey with the star people is a first-hand account of human interaction with multidimensional beings, written by a William & Mary graduate who began having unusual experiences starting at age four.

These “visitors” come mostly during the night and quite possibly take the human right OUT of their physical body. Some of the visitors are bad, some are good, and some aren't extraterrestrial at all but part of a huge, covert operation being carried out for years and years by the Secret Government. Many, many people dismiss these events as dreams and do not look into them further. The events are recalled as very real, bizarre, other-worldly encounters in which the contactee or abductee is consciously aware. People would do well to start paying attention to what happens at night when they are “sleeping.”

In Invitation to the Self; journey with the star people, you will learn about aliens, their methods of abduction, alternate dimensions and realities, military psychics, government involvement, and how to deal with it all. If you are an abductee who feels like a helpless victim, get ready for a change. You will journey through the typical abduction experience, military abductions (MILABS), the transitional phase of moving from one reality to another, energy manipulation, and finally, releasing fear and taking control of life. No matter what your interests may be (abductee, contactee, or simply bewildered by the whole thing), you will be motivated to make positive changes in your own life."
