Pirate's Heart David M. Carner

“Standing on a plank with a cannon ball tied to his leg, waiting to meet Dave Jones in the locker at the bottom of the sea, couldn’t keep Captain Aaden Crowe from staring at the woman he loved.” Pirate’s Heart tells the story of a young Australian boy who couldn’t wait to leave a broken home. After forging papers to sail onboard the HMS Norwood out of Sydney Australia because of his age, Aaden Crowe thought this was the life he had always wanted. That was until their ship was boarded and attacked by a ruthless band of pirates. Aaden and a handful of others are taken prisoner and just when things couldn’t get any worse, they are involved in a second sea battle leaving the young man Captain of a Chinese Junk. After countless plundering’s and becoming a known privateer, Captain Crowe thought that his life couldn’t get any better. That was until he met Anne, the daughter of a Jamaican Governor, whose ship was attacked and sunk on their way to see her father. Upon rescue by Captain Crowe himself, the two fall in love and begin to wonder if they will spend their lives together. But when an old sea Captain comes to take revenge on Crowe, things turn for the two lovers. With his ship sunk, his valiant crew presumed dead, and a cannon ball tied to his leg awaiting death on the bottom of the sea, Aaden must free himself, find a crew and a ship, and charge after the woman he loves.
