Kojo Ryu Legacy Scot Mertz

Kojo Ryu, the ghost system of Okinawa, has long been thought to be one of the original karate styles that laid the foundation for most modern karate styles. The last dojo in Okinawa shut its doors in 1975, since then there has been small dojos here and there, but nothing that has really caught the eye of the mainstream karate practitioners. This book has been a few years in the making, but has been put together out of independent research into the system as a way to preserve what is left of the art before it disappears completely.
